Claudia Inggrid
Associate

Background

Claudia Inggrid joined ABNR in 2021 and focuses her practice on banking & finance, project finance, and foreign direct investment (FDI). She regularly acts for both lenders and borrowers in a variety of cross-border and domestic financing transactions, particularly in the infrastructure and energy sectors.

In banking & finance, Claudia advises international and domestic financial institutions on a broad range of financing structures, including senior and mezzanine facilities, accordion facilities, refinancing, and hybrid (conventional and sharia-compliant) syndicated loans. On the lender side, she has acted for international banks and financial institutions in transactions such as a USD 30 million to an Indonesian data center management company, multiple loan facilities worth approximately USD 40 million to companies within a Sri Lanka-based food manufacturing conglomerate. On the borrower side, she represented a publicly listed Indonesian palm oil company in an IDR 4.3 trillion hybrid syndicated loan, and assisted a state-owned enterprise engaged in public transportation services to secure an IDR 5.5 trillion syndicated facility.

In project finance, Claudia is part of the team advising lenders on the financing of major renewable energy infrastructure projects, including the Sarulla, Muara Laboh, and Rantau Dedap geothermal plants, as well as the Cirebon coal-fired power expansion project. She has been involved in legal due diligence exercises and transaction support for various electricity generation and water treatment projects throughout Indonesia.

In foreign direct investment (FDI), Claudia advises international clients on establishing and expanding their operations in Indonesia, including entity structuring, licensing, compliance, and day-to-day corporate governance. She is also involved in advisory work for global retail and distribution clients on Indonesian trade regulations. Her recent work includes assisting in the acquisition and internal restructuring of a multinational professional services firm engaged in audit, consulting, risk, and tax advisory.

Claudia earned her law degree from the University of Indonesia in 2021, majoring in private law.
